KASHISH JAIN ARTICULATES ON THE PROCEEDINGS OF UNCSW

"The moral and the historical status of women has been chasen and improved alot in denmark" delegate of denmark boldly stated.

Human trafficking is the trade of humans for the purpose of forced labour, sexual slavery or commercial sexual exploitation for the trafficker or others. The delegate of Israel bolstered his country by saying "Israel's efforts have succeeded and trafficking has been reduced" On the other hand, Iran made an offensive statement "human trafficking is expanding so significantly that it has become the widest country of exploitation in Asian". It was too soon for the moderated caucus to have started and the heat had already started to build up when Afghanistan accused Israel of sexual exploitation. The delegate of New Zealand came forward with male dominance in every sphere prevalent while the delegate of Israel emphasized upon vulnerability of woman. The delegate of India had a different point of view that the concurrent century has welcomed women empowerment and growth.

"It is truly said that men are more powerful than women in physical terms but when it comes to social or emotional power, women are more powerful"

~India

As the session proceeded, New Zealand promulgated "I think that in most of the countries men are given more power and that's why literacy rate is low"- a viewpoint that raised serious concerns among the delegates.

The whole committee was all ears to a deliverance by the delegate of United kingdom highlighting the various important facts and essentially the racism crisis. The delegates showed a special concern towards education as it is the most important factor by which racism can be decreased.

Further all the delegates shared more emphasis on the cultural diversity and the involvement of women from backward areas. The delegate of Republic of Korea raised a crucial point of racism being a gradual process. AMESSAGE FROM THE BOARD

International press is a body that is able to deliver justice to the right to speech and expression granted to the very people of this democracy by voicing out their concerns and grievances in the most notable manner, henceforth becoming one of the most important pillars concurrent. The responsibility endowed by this very position of the Head of International Press that I was privileged to get at Glengaze was to carry forward the legacy of the International Press that I was bestowed with and not what it has been modeled into today. During this time of pandemic, it becomes all the more important to vent out feelings the way you like: writing being one of them for ambiverts like me, which further amplified the responsibilities attached to this body I headed in the month of October. The journalists have given their best to project their opinions in a manner that not just depicted their concern towards the issue but also gave a strong message to the readers invoking patriotism and sense of duty within them, qualities that are utterly lacking today.
