

POSITION PAPER

BY- Delegate of Peoples Republic of China

United Nations Security Council

Kuril Islands dispute has been a matter of concern of two nations namely Russia and Japan, which started way before 1855. Which yet is not seeming to finish. Here the government of China has seen this issue from various government transitions. Starting from the Qing dynasty, republic of China and our current People's Republic of China. We have expected peace throughout our time in the world but due to various nation's greed and urge to be dominating has resulted in various endless wars. This dispute has severely affected the lives of various local residents, due to their disputed national recognition.

The People's Republic of China has constantly taken diplomatic steps towards the solution for issues throughout the world, also our government has taken steps to maintain peace and stability in the region. The government has conducted various diplomatic meetings with government of Russia regarding the peaceful resolution of kuril islands dispute, but the government of Japan is not seeming to have peaceful relations with their neighbor thus they have been constantly seen conducting threatening and provocative acts with the support of their allies.

This issue may continue for a long time if no drastic action is taken to resolve the issue. The matter of concern should be sent to the permanent court of arbitration. Until the given case is resolved both the parties including their allies should demilitarize the disputed area. Referring the UNSC resolution 2368, a resolution should be passed to form combined task force by both the parties with third party military detachment whose primary role would be for surveillance over the disputed islands, their quarterly report should be directly submitted to the United Nations Security Council. The before mentioned combined task force would be responsible for maintenance of peace in the region until the resolution is made.
