

Position Paper

Committee: United Nations Security Council (UNSC)

Agenda: The Protection of Civilians in Conflict Zones

Delegate of: India

INTRODUCTION

The current escalation of violence in various conflict zones globally has created a humanitarian crisis that demands the immediate attention of the Security Council. As a member of the UNSC, India holds the firm belief that the protection of innocent civilians must remain the highest priority of the international community, surpassing all political agendas.

CURRENT SITUATION

The ongoing conflicts have led to severe displacement, the destruction of essential infrastructure, and the tragic loss of civilian lives. Despite various ceasefire attempts, the situation on the ground remains fragile. India believes that the failure to reach a unified consensus within the Council has only worsened the suffering of those trapped in conflict areas, further destabilizing regional peace and security.

OUR STANCE

India strongly advocates for the respect of national sovereignty, yet we firmly believe that sovereignty does not grant a license to disregard basic human rights. Our nation has always stood for a peaceful resolution through diplomatic dialogue. India argues that unilateral military actions often do more harm than good, and the Council must act as a mediator rather than a spectator. We are deeply committed to the principle that the safety of non-combatants is a non-negotiable obligation for all parties involved, regardless of the political context of the conflict.

PROPOSED SOLUTIONS

To address this crisis effectively, the delegate of India proposes the following measures:

Humanitarian Corridors: Establishing strictly monitored, safe corridors to ensure the unhindered delivery of medical supplies, food, and emergency aid to affected populations.

Neutral Oversight: The deployment of neutral observers to document violations of international law, ensuring accountability for all parties involved in the conflict.

Diplomatic Framework: Initiating a structured, inclusive dialogue process that involves local stakeholders to find long-term political solutions, rather than relying solely on temporary military ceasefires.

Resource Protection: International protection for essential infrastructure, including schools, hospitals, and water systems, which are currently being targeted and must be declared "no-go" zones for military operations.

CONCLUSION

The Security Council cannot afford to be divided when human lives are at stake. India urges all member states to move past their geopolitical differences and work toward a unified resolution. We believe that through sincere, multilateral cooperation and a shared commitment to humanity, we can put an end to this cycle of violence and restore stability for the civilian population.
