

Position Paper

Committee: United Nations Security Council (UNSC)

Agenda: Combating Terrorism and Terror Financing

Delegate of: India

INTRODUCTION

Today, terrorism is not just a regional issue but a global threat that affects everyone's safety. As a country that has been fighting against terrorism for many years, India believes it is time for the Security Council to take strong and practical steps instead of just issuing statements.

CURRENT SITUATION

Terrorist groups are getting smarter. They are now using modern technology and social media for recruitment and spreading their ideology. What is even more dangerous is how they use illegal financial networks and digital assets to fund their activities, making it very difficult for authorities to track them.

OUR STANCE

India's position is clear: terrorism has no justification. There should be no distinction between "good" or "bad" terrorists. We believe that if we want to defeat terrorism, we must cut off their money supply. Countries that provide shelter to terrorists or help in funding them must be held responsible under international law.

PROPOSED SOLUTIONS

We suggest the following actions to tackle this issue:

Stronger Financial Rules: We need stricter rules on digital payments and cryptocurrencies so that money cannot be moved anonymously to support terror.

Real-time Information Sharing: Countries should share intelligence about terror funding networks with each other immediately, without any delay.

Accountability: Any country found supporting or funding designated terrorist groups should face automatic and strict sanctions from the UN.

Legal Cooperation: It should be easier for countries to work together to catch and prosecute those involved in terror financing, no matter where they are hiding.

CONCLUSION

The Security Council has a big responsibility. India urges all member states to put aside their personal interests and work together. We need to stop the money that fuels terrorism to make the world a safer place for everyone.
